Bike course scheduled

By Howard Winberg

Good Friday saw the main gathering for outside the campus athletic buildings at Thompson College's Dean Campus, transformed into an outdoor arena.

Students staff members of the motorcycle club in taking charge were taking advantage of the empty lot to have their meeting held, before Chad Knight (left) for experienced riders, and a beginner's class, before the last mile race.

It was because of the riding and the rest of the course. This is to be the main reason for it. It is a chance to get comfortable in the rain and to get a feel for the course.

According to the course, the college staff offered assistance during the course for the first time and to help the riders and to help the riders.

Students help make Can Pro awards work

By Matthew Schickel

Students at Conestoga College's Doon campus have been busy making and submitting (BETV), and print journal on programs events of the 1985-86 Can Pro awards held at the Yorkville Inn March 22. CROSTV is a television station for the college.

Most of students were recruited by CROSTV in category staff: videographers, photographers, and writers, and there were four entries in the student category of the awards, with three others received in the print category.

Can Pro is an organization of independent broadcasters that help award categories in a different Canadian city every year.

Established in 1974, Can Pro is the only awards ceremony for Canadian broadcasters, although the 1985 awards got the ball rolling by changing the name to the Academy of Canadian Cinema and Television and offering an awards ceremony that is intended to recognize the television industry as well.

Although Can Pro is pretty widely recognized in Canada, it's not as well known as the golden globe and all of the business there is a student category. The difference is reflected in there having been 282 entries from the professional sector compared to 28 students from the educational sector.

Four of the 28 entries were from Conestoga College's Doon campus. Geraldine, a former and public affairs Ed. David Park, a short performing arts and light entertainment entry, and two entries. Margaret and Debbie took in the long performing arts and short entry submitted category, with the others retired.

Margaret, Debbie took, and Sports Park placed second, and several entries only in their category. Margaret and Debbie took were two of three entries in their category and Sports Park was one of three entries in its category, while David took was one of 11 entries in its category.

Gary Marshall, the BETV coordinator who worked with Can Pro through the college, found this year to be less than he hoped for.

"I was disappointed that we didn't get first place this year — but we did well on the national level," said Marshall.

Filmfest to be monthly event

By Debbie Hwang

The Doon Student Association (DSA) will sponsor an official Filmfest April 8 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the student lounge.

Scheduled for showing are: Mad Max and The Empire Strikes Back. Family Reg. activities co-ordinator for the DSA, said, "In September of next year, the DSA will be sponsoring a film fest in a regular monthly Reg."

"I would like to see different films brought and suggest the movies that they would like to see," said Hwang.

Bill Wilson, a business administrator and co-ordinator of student club, said, "It's a good idea to have the Filmfest once a month. But the DSA should advertise more and many people have heard the Student."

Wilson added, "I have heard more about the Filmfest from students, and I have heard more about the student club. It is a good idea."
